-- The MAILING DATE of this communication appears on the cover sheet with the correspondence address --
Period for Reply

A SHORTENED STATUTORY PERIOD FOR REPLY IS SET TO EXPIRE 3 MONTH(S) FROM THE MAILING DATE OF THIS COMMUNICATION.

- Extensions of time may be available under the provisions of 37 CFR 1.136(a). In no event, however, may a reply be timely filed after SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- If the period for reply specified above is less than thirty (30) days, a reply within the statutory minimum of thirty (30) days will be considered timely.
- If NO period for reply is specified above, the maximum statutory period will apply and will expire SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- Failure to reply within the set or extended period for reply will, by statute, cause the application to become ABANDONED (35 U.S.C. § 133). Any reply received by the Office later than three months after the mailing date of this communication, even if timely filed, may reduce any earned patent term adjustment. See 37 CFR 1.704(b).

Status

- 1) ☒ Responsive to communication(s) filed on 31 May 2005.
- 2a) ☒ This action is FINAL.                      2b) ☐ This action is non-final.

DETAILED ACTION

Applicant's Amendment filed 05/31/05 has been entered and carefully considered. Claim 1 has been amended. Limitations of amended claim have not been found to be persuasive over prior art of record, therefore, claim 1 are rejected under the new ground rejection as set forth below.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over LaJoie et al (5450864) in view of Park (d441192) and Prussen (5251751)

With regard to claim 1, LaJoie et al discloses a molded tree of artificial fingernails (fig. 2) comprising a sprue (44), ten work-in-process artificial fingernails (10) being attached on each side of the sprue in spaced relation, the sizes of the artificial fingernails being graduated from the largest size to the smallest size, the artificial fingernails being detachable from the sprue (col. 6, lines 32-35). Lajoie et al does not disclose the step of putting the artificial fingernails in a rectangular container which has a bottom delineated into ten compartments in two parallel rows of five compartment in each row, detaching the work-in-process artificial fingernails from the sprue of the tree from the sprue center location of the largest size, from the sprue end locations of the smallest size and from the remaining sprue locations between the center and end locations of the work-in-process artificial fingernails; and the container further having a hinged lid with a chart imprinted with numerical size designations correlated in each row to the compartment of the bottom. Park discloses an artificial fingernail case (fig. 1) in a rectangular box-like container having delineated into ten compartments, the container also having a hinged lid. Prussen discloses a container (fig. 2) comprising a bottom (21) with a row of five compartments, the container also having a hinged lid (28) including a chart (18) imprinted with numerical size (38) correlated in the row to the compartment of the bottom. It would have been obvious to one having an ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to employ the container of Park and the particular lid structure of Prussen into the artificial fingernails of LaJoie et al for the purpose of storing the artificial fingernails and identifying the size of artificial fingernails and using them appropriately. It would also have been obvious to one having an ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to detach the artificial fingernails from the sprue end locations, from the sprue center location and from the locations between the center and sprue end locations from the molded tree of Lajoie et al and put them in graduated sizes into the container of Park in order to ship it out to the customer. It would also have been an obvious matter of design choice to construct the ten compartments as taught by Park into two parallel rows of five compartments in each row, since such a modification would involved a mere change in rearranging the compartments of the container.

Applicant's arguments with respect to claim 1 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
